

Sandalwood
FAMILY CENTRE

In November 2023 the Intergenerational Playgroup entered the reconstructed art competition.

The Sandalwood Family Centre community artwork is a representation of our logo-
the Sandalwood Nut.

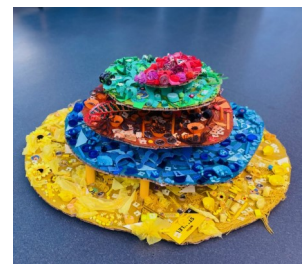

The Sandalwood is part of a genus of woody flowering plants. A genus meaning a group of species that are closely related through common decent.

Our Intergenerational Play Group meets at the Sandalwood Family Centre, and like the Sandalwood Plant we are all different but related though common traits and support each other.

We have created our works using recycled card for our base. We asked the community and Sandalwood members to bring in 'Small Objects' they were no longer using, in our Sandalwood colours. The younger members painted the bases then added found objects to the sections. The older members of our group used hot glue guns to secure our found objects.

Sandalwood
FAMILY CENTRE

To start our recycled art project we put a call out for pieces of 'junk' in our logo colours.

We shared these posters in the centre, at playgroup and on Facebook, Instagram and with our email networks.

We then had a collection of colourful things in our office.

To start constructing our art project we cut out large pieces of cardboard in the Sandalwood logo shape and the Playgroup kids painted them in the matching colours.

It was lots of fun painting in the sun with our friends.
We used paint rollers and foam brushes.

Once the cardboard panels were dry we started gluing!. We glued GREEN 'junk' onto the GREEN section and RED 'junk' onto the RED section and so on.

The adults at Intergenerational Playgroup used hot glue guns to make sure everything was secure and to add heavier items of 'junk'.

The adults used the hot glue guns and cardboard tubes to put the layers one on top of each other.— like a tower.

It looks like our Sandalwood Family Centre logo!

We are very proud because we worked hard and we received the '2023 Community Group Winner'.

Sandalwood

FAMILY CENTRE

In November 2023 the Intergenerational Playgroup entered the reconstructed art competition.

The Sandalwood Family Centre community artwork is a representation of our logo-
the Sandalwood Nut.

The Sandalwood is part of a genus of woody flowering plants. A genus meaning a group of species that are closely related through common decent.

Our Intergenerational Play Group meets at the Sandalwood Family Centre, and like the Sandalwood Plant we are all different but related though common traits and support each other.

We have created our works using recycled card for our base. We asked the community and Sandalwood members to bring in 'Small Objects' they were no longer using, in our Sandalwood colours. The younger members painted the bases then added found objects to the sections. The older members of our group used hot glue guns to secure our found objects.

